BALES FAMILIES

in

EAST TENNESSEE

* * * * *

Primarily, this history traces the ancestry of the many BALES families in Tennessee - all of whom are descended from a single couple (John Beals I who married Mary Clayton in Penna in 1682.) It was not planned as a complete genealogical record of ALL the Bales families in the United States. That is a task beyond the time or facilities of this author. This is the first history of the BALES family ever printed. It required the equivalent of two full years of 10 hours a day to compile.

With no written history of any kind to start with, the author had to dig out from original sources- church and county marriage and birth records, and such- all the early history. Fortunately many of the early church records of the Quaker Church to which the family all belonged for many generations are still extant. Many are lost. But enough were found to make this a very accurate history. Later records were found among some of the families. While not complete, it is believed accurate, as far as it goes. It brings the Tennessee branch down to date - 12 generations.

Secondarily, this includes the older ancestral record of ALL Bales families in the United States, except one or two unrelated New England families of the name. The BALES Clan is a large one, numbering probably 10,000 persons all descended from JOHN BEALS I who came to US in 1675, married Mary Clayton, daughter of William Clayton, one of Penn's First Commissioners, in Chester Co. Pa. in 1682. William Clayton was the First Judge of the first Court ever held in what is now Pennsylvania - at Uplands. There was no Penna. in 1677 when John I settled there- all this was still a part of Maryland. Any Bales who can trace his ancestry back 100 years should be able to find the correct tie-in to John I.

The Bales family is the typical Pioneer family of America. One or more members of this family was in the vanguard of every Westward movement from the Atlantic to the Pacific. John I settled in Penna. years before Penn got his grant. His descendants moved to Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Kansas, and practically every other state before they were states. John III settle near Winchester, Va. in the Shennandoah Valley, when all the Northern half of Va. and all of West Virginia were just one county- Spotsylvania County. His son William settled in what is now Knox County, Tenn. when all that section was Washington County, N. C. - years before the State of Franklin and before the State of Tennessee. Other descendants settled in Ohio, Ill. Ind, Iowa, and Kansas 20 years before these became states.

BALES FAMILIES OF EAST TENNESSEE

(First of the Pioneers)

* * * * *

By Clarence A. Bales, Chicago, Ill., and Jefferson City, Tenn.

* * * * *

The BALES family can justly claim a prominent place in the front ranks of the "Pioneers of America." One or more members of this family was in the Vanguard of every Westward march from the first settlements along the Atlantic Seaboard, to the final reaching of the Pacific. Names of members of this family are found in the very earliest records of practically every State of the Union. In many instances, they arrived before any public records were kept.

For example: John I lived first in Maryland and then Pennsylvania without ever moving. John III lived successively in Rowan, Orange and Guilford Counties, N. C., always on the same farm. John IV and wife Sara bought a farm in 1764 and sold it in 1770. The deed to them is recorded in Rowan County. The deed from them is recorded in Vol. I, page 14, records of Guilford County. His brother William bought a farm in what is now Knox County, Tenn., in 1789, his deed reciting in "Green County, Territory South of the Ohio," and in the 13th year of American Independence. When William came to Tennessee in 1785 all East Tennessee was Washington County, North Carolina. In a period of 11 years, without moving, he lived successively in Washington County, North Carolina; Greene County, Territory South of the Ohio; the State of Franklin; and Green, Jefferson and Knox Counties, Tennessee. Jefferson County was cut off from Green in 1792, Knox from Jefferson late in 1792, and Sevier out of Jefferson and Knox in 1793. The State of Tennessee was organized in 1796.

John Beales (here designated John I) was born in England in 1650, and emigrated to America in 1675 with John Fenwick's colony which settled Salem, New Jersey. He came on the Ship Griffin. Two years later (1667) his name appears on the tax books of what is now Delaware County, Pa., as a farmer. And the Bales family has been paying taxes ever since. John's farm is now in the NW part of Chester, Pa. There were fewer than 300 white people in all of Pennsylvania in 1667 - mostly men: and there was no Pennsylvania. All that section was then a part of Lord Baltimore's Maryland grant. Penn got his grant March, 1681, and Philadelphia was founded in 1682. So John I was five years ahead of William Penn. While the Bales family claims no Mayflower descent, some of the Original Mayflower Colony were still living when John I reached America.

Two sons of John I (William and John II) married in Pennsylvania, and about 1725 moved to Western Maryland to a place called Monocacy - then the furthestmost west white settlement. Monocacy is near Frederick, Frederick County, Maryland, a few miles above Washington, D. C. All of Western Maryland was then just one big county - Prince Georges.

John III, sometime before 1740, married Margaret Hunt and moved to the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia near the present town of Winchester, where an early Quaker settlement was founded. He bought a farm from his brother-in-law John Mills, Jr. All of Northern Virginia and much of West Virginia was then just one big county - Spotsylvania.

About 1754 John III and family, with his brothers Bowater and William and family, and sisters Sarah (Mrs. John Mills, Jr.), Prudence (Mrs. Richard Williams) and Ann or Mary (Mrs. Thomas Hunt) and Rachel (Mrs. Azariah Fugh) moved to the rich Piedmont Plateau of North Carolina. All this section was just one county, Rowan. Without moving, John III lived successively in Rowan, Orange, and Guilford Counties, all within a period of 15 years. That shows how new the country was and how rapidly it was growing.

In 1797, Thomas Beals (Brother of John III) after having lived in Maryland, North Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia, moved to Quaker Bottom, Ohio (where he had visited 25 years before as a Missionary to the Indians) near the present town of Adelphia. He was thus the first Quaker minister to Ohio. He died in 1801 near Richmendale, Ross County, Ohio. A monument to his memory was erected there in 1937.

About 1800, other members of the family moved to Warren County, Ohio, Wayne County, Indiana, and Vermillion County, Illinois -- 20 to 30 years before these became states. From there some of their descendants later moved to Kansas and Iowa before either of these were states. Untold thousands of Beals descendants are to be found in almost every state of the Union. They were true pioneers. They moved into and helped settle the country, and form governments, instead of waiting for others to do it for them.

The women of the Beals family (both wives and daughters) were themselves equally true pioneers. They went with their husbands, sharing their hardships, living in crude houses, raising large families -- teaching their children to respect their fellows and to love their God. No harder set of women ever lived than these pioneer mothers and daughters. Travel conditions were hard. There were no roads, just trails; no carriages, just crude wagons. Most of them rode horseback or walked. Men, women and children shared hardships jointly. Under these conditions they raised large families of God-fearing sons and daughters; and to the women must go most of the credit. Not in the first 200 years of Beals family history did I find a single divorce or separation record.

ORIGIN AND NAME

The Beals family is definitely of English Quaker origin. The exact location of the ancestral home in England is unknown. One tradition says Yorkshire. That may well be. Many of the early Pennsylvania settlers came from Yorkshire. And, in the Doncaster, (Yorkshire) records from 1700 on are numerous marriage records of various spellings -- Beals, Bails and Balos. John Fenwick, with whom John I came to America, was Northumberland born. Northumberland adjoins Yorkshire. Fenwick was an officer in Cromwell's army before he joined the Quakers.

Whether John I came directly from England, or by way of Ireland or Scotland is unknown. One tradition says from England by way of Ireland; another says by way of Scotland. Although most of Fenwick's group came from England direct, his ship the Griffin may have touched port in both Scotland and Ireland. Some evidence for the Irish tradition may be found in the fact that many Quakers fled to Ireland from England soon after the severe persecution by the English State Church started about 1760, and formed a large colony in County Carlow, Ireland: from where many of them later emigrated to Pennsylvania.

In fact, the name of their early church in Chester County, Pennsylvania, "New Garden" was in memory of a church of that name in County Carlow. Later descendants from New Garden, along with others from Maryland and Virginia, went to North Carolina where a third church named "New Garden" was set up in Guilford County. This, in time, became the largest Quaker Church in the United States.

There is a family tradition of FOUR brothers coming together from England to form the nuclei of the family. Tradition gives their names as Caleb, John or Jonathan, Solomon and one other, probably Daniel. I question this. Nowhere in the early records of either New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland or Virginia did I find any record of any Beals, Bales, or Bails other than John I, and his descendants. I feel sure tradition has confused the names of the early Tennessee settlers, with the original -- and skipped four generations. William, (son of John III) had sons Caleb, Solomon, and John, who settled in Tennessee. Two families who came from York County, Pa., through Virginia, had sons Caleb, Solomon and Jonathan. All East Tennessee families whose history I know, definitely trace back to John I who settled in Pa. in 1677.

The correct, original spelling of the name is unknown. John I, and his descendants to the fourth generation (about 1800) generally spelled it Beals. Since 1800, most of them have used the spelling BALES - although some descendants of the York County branch, and those now in York Counties still use BEALS. However, it is by no means certain the English spelling was BEALS - both Bails and Bales are found in early English records, apparently members of the same family. The first public record (the 1677 tax roll) has it John bayles. (Small b). The New Garden and Chester, Pa., Church records spell it Bails. From then on the spelling seems to depend largely on who made the record. In a single document like a deed I have found the title Bales or Bails, and the signature Beals: and otherwise. Like variations appear on church and marriage records. The early Pennsylvania Church records spell it mostly Bales, occasionally Bails, later Beals - reversing the a and e. From this I take it the name was pronounced as if spelled BALES.

THE QUAKERS

Bales family history for its first 150 years in America is closely bound up with the history of the Quaker movement (officially the Society of Friends). All the older members of the family were Quakers, and many still are: although most have joined other church groups.

Our thanks are due to the Quakers for their carefully kept church records - the most complete of any Church group, or State records in the United States, prior to 1850. Most of their churches were small country churches, and their members mostly farmers: but they kept birth, marriage, and removal records of incalculable genealogical value. But for these, this history could not have been written.

Few of us realize the influence this group of common, quiet, religious folk upon our Society and our form of Government; upon the life and morals of people today. It is reliably estimated that fully 1/5 of all white people in the United States whose ancestors have been here more than 100 years, have some mixture of Quaker blood. President Herbert Hoover is a Quaker. So was Uncle Joe Cannon, long Speaker of the United States House of Representatives.

So was Benjamin Franklin. And so were many of our truly great Civic, Religious and Political leaders of the past. It is said that when Uncle Joe Cannon's mother left their home in Guilford County, N. C., for the wilderness of Indiana, she uttered this farewell: "Goodbye, New Garden: Goodbye, civilization."

Quakerism started as a laymen's protest against the immorality, irreligion, and tax burden of the English State Church. It was a protest of the common people, unorganized at first, against conditions which scandalized their ideas of religion, morality and justice; and the horrors of war. By 1640 it had become an organized movement, known as the Society of Friends - still its official name. George Fox, who became active head of the Society about 1650, gave it such impetus that the State Church became alarmed about its income and privileges, and around 1665, started a bitter persecution of Friends - whippings, jailings, and confiscation of property. Thousands fled their homeland to Ireland, Scotland, some even to the Continent. This persecution carried over even to Virginia and New York and lasted for 100 years.

The Church and State records of New York and Virginia contain many references to property confiscation, and jailings by public officials. They took not only grain, tobacco and live-stock; but even farming implements, household utensils, even extra clothing and featherbeds - for taxes to support the State Church.

William Penn was a Quaker Minister - often spoke at Meeting - and a close personal friend of George Fox. It was his interest in the hardships of his fellow Quakers which first prompted Penn to seek a grant from the English Government as a home for the thousands of persecuted and displaced Friends. The Government was indebted to Penn in the sum of several thousand pounds. His father, an English Admiral, had loaned the government this money; and this was how he collected it. Some years before Penn got his grant, he had been appointed Trustee of a similar grant to West Jersey, adjoining. His experience there convinced him of the feasibility of a home in America for persecuted Quakers. So this persecution did good after all. It sent to the new America thousands upon thousands of capable, sincere, religious, kindly-disposed, hard working men and women; and gave the new country a right direction which carries over even to now.

It was the Quaker people and Quaker ideas which made the Colony of Pennsylvania so different in many ways from other colonies. For example - Quakers believed that marriage was solely the function of the church; and their refusal to accept marriage licenses from the State or report their marriages to the State caused Pennsylvania to abolish the law requiring marriage licenses. So Pennsylvania has no state marriage records prior to 1870. They were also opposed to slavery - they fought it always. They were the first American prohibitionists. There is a record of a protest signed in 1690 by 76 members of New Garden, N. C., with 17 others from Chichester, against the sale of whiskey to Indians.

Quakers were and are unalterably opposed to War as a means of settling anything. They not only refused to join in war, they expelled their members for even engaging in Militia drills. They likewise expelled many for accepting Public Office. Walter Bales was expelled in Jefferson County in 1825 for being elected Justice of the Peace.

They were equally strict about the payment of debts, about the sanctity of the home, and about moral conduct. Quaker records are filled with accounts of reprimands, and dismissals for violation.

QUAKER MINISTERS

In connection with the dedication of a Memorial to Thomas Beals - the first Quaker Minister in Ohio at Richmondale, Ohio, in 1937,--the Ohio Historical Soc. (Vol. 53 in 1944), printed a list of 32 known direct descendants of John Beals I who were Quaker Ministers. There were others in Jefferson County not included in this list; and many more elsewhere.

The names given are: Thomas Beals, Bowater Beals, Sarah (Bales) Mills, Ruth Hockett, Hanna Cloud, Nathan Hunt, Hannah Baldwin, Elizabeth Bond, Jesse Hockett, Elizabeth Bond, Jesse Bond, Peter Dicks, Jesse Williams, Daniel Williams, Eleazer Bales, Asenath Heath, Benjamin Hiatt, Asenath Clark, Mysian Mendenhall, Naomi Coffin, Ruth H. Ansby, Esther Coffin, Levi Jessup, Jesse B. Williams, Margaret Town, William J. Thornburgh, Anna M. Votaw, Elwood Scott, Dr. Dagnar Clark, Elizabeth Beals, and Jehcal Bond.

In 1757, Richard Williams (son-in-law of John Beals II) donated 50 acres of land in Guilford County, N. C. for the New Garden Meeting and Burying Ground. Lost Creek Church in Jefferson County, Tenn., (At Friends Station) is on land donated by John Mills, Grandson of John Beals II. The Quaker Church at Menallen, York County, Pa., is on land donated by Caleb Beals, grandson of John I.

GENEALOGY

FIRST GENERATION

Starting with John I, the BALES FAMILY, now (1951) has a known history of 12 generations - 276 years in America. As before stated, it is among the "First of the Pioneers" both in times of origin, and in the march across the Continent from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

John I who emigrated to New Jersey with Fenwick in 1675 and settled in Delaware County, before 1677, there met and married Mary Clayton - daughter of William Clayton, one of the Commissioners first sent out by Penn to buy Indian rights, while Penn was negotiating with the Crown for his land grant. Clayton was from London, a man of education and prominence. He was quite active in organizing the first government anywhere in what is now Pennsylvania. This was organized under the Colony of Maryland, and known as "Uplands" District. William Clayton was the Presiding Justice of the first Court established at Uplands. This was both a Judicial and a Legislative body. He died in 1691.

The Clayton family came in the ship Kent in 1677 with some 230 other emigrants. In 1679 Wm. Clayton bought property in Chester from a Swedish settler there - Hans Olesen. John Beals I then had a farm about 5 or 6 miles away. Soon thereafter he bought another farm in Chester County adjoining one owned by William Clayton, Jr., brother of the Mary whom John I married in 1682. William Clayton, Jr., married Elizabeth Dezer and had a mill inside what is now the City of Philadelphia. Patience Clayton, sister of Mary and Wm. Jr., married Henry Reynolds - a non-Quaker, who was a member of the first Grand Jury ever held in Pennsylvania at "Uplands."

Church records do not show exact date or place of marriage of John Beals and Mary Clayton. Chester MM records show it was announced there Nov. 1st, 1682. It took place probably at Robert Wade's home in Chester - picture of which appears on last page. This home served as the first meeting place for Quakers in Pennsylvania. This may well have been the FIRST marriage at Chester. Mary's brother William Clayton and Elizabeth Bozer were first to announce marriage intentions at Chester, but owing to absence of bride's parents, were not the first married.

John I died at East Nottingham, Md. in 1726. Mary probably at Monocacy, date unknown.

SECOND GENERATION

New Garden, Pa., birth records list these children of John Beals' and Mary Clayton:

1. John II	b. Jan. 20, 1685	m. Sarah Bowater
2. William	" Feb. 1, 1687	" Rebecca Chambers
3. Jacob	" July 28, 1689	" Mary Brooks
4. Mary	" Apr. 24, 1693	" Richard Harold
5. Patience	" Jan. 16, 1695	" Joseph Jones (Son of John)

Near neighbors of John Beals I and William Clayton, Jr. in Concord Tp. (now Chester Co.) Pa., were John Mendenhall, Thomas Hall, William Asham, N. Pile, Peter Dicks and William Cloud. Most of these were Quakers. Descendants of the Mendenhall, Dicks and Cloud families travelled along with the Beals family to Va., N. C. and Tenn. and there were many intermarriages.

William Beals, 2nd son of John I, married Rebecca Chambers at Nottingham in April 26, 1712. They had one daughter Lydia born in 1719 but nothing further is known about her. William and Rebecca moved to Monocacy about 1725 and apparently died there before 1750.

Mary Beals, daughter of John I and Mary apparently never married. No record.

HERE THE FAMILY DIVIDES. Jacob Beals, 3rd son of John I and Mary, married Mary Brooks, daughter of John Brooks in 1714. Apparently both died in Pa. Their history is given later. About 1750 several of their descendants moved to Huntington Tp., York County (now Adams Co.) Pa. These formed the YORK COUNTY BRANCH.

John Beals II (or Baels, or Bails) b. 1685 married Sarah Bowater, b. 1688, dau. of Thomas Bowater and Sarah Edge, at Chester Meeting House Sept. 14th, 1711. They had 4 boys and 3 girls. The family moved to Monocacy, Frederick Co., Md. about 1725, where all of the children later married and where John II died in 1746. All the children went to N. Car. and they and their descendants form the NORTH CAROLINA BRANCH.

It is not definitely known whether Thomas Bowater was a brother of ...

Rev. John Bowater, a Friends Minister from England who made a missionary journey through Va. and N.C. in 1678, and whose family in 1684 joined Philadelphia M.M. bringing a letter from Dudley M.M. He probably was.

NORTH CAROLINA BRANCH

THIRD GENERATION

John Beals II, b. 1685, married Sarah Bowater, b. 1688, at Chester Meeting Sept. 14, 1711. They had 7 children:

1. Sarah	b. 1713	(m. John Mills, Jr.))
2. John III	b. 1717	(m. Margaret Hunt))
3. Thomas	b. 1719	(m. Sarah Antrin))
4. Prudence	b. 1723	(m. Richard Williams))
5. Bowater	b. 1725	(m. Sarah Cook))
6. Hannah	b. 1728	(m. Asariah Pugh))
7. Rachel	b. 1730	(m. Thomas Hunt))

John II died at Monocacy, Md., in 1746. Sarah, his widow, married Alex Underwood in 1748 and moved to Warrington, Ill, Pa. All the children, with their families, moved to the rich Piedmont (Central) Section of N. Carolina, about 1750. Bowater settled in Surry Co., the Pughs in Bladen County, the others in Rowan later known as Guilford and Orange Counties. All of these except Thomas died there.

Thomas, the 3rd son, is the famous Quaker Minister and Missionary to the Indians who died in 1801 in Ohio, as mentioned earlier. Richard Williams, (wife Prudence Beals) gave 50 acres of land for New Garden Meeting and Burying Grounds. Later John Mills III, son of John Jr., and Sarah Beals, gave the land for the Lost Creek Meeting in Jefferson County, near Friends Station.

SARAH, b. 1713, married John Mills, Jr. at Chester M.M. in 1732. His father, John Mills, Sr., was a member of the Quaker Group (including John Ross, Ballinger, Morgan, et al.) who secured a grant of 100,000 acres in the rich Shenandoah Valley of Va. in 1732, and founded a great Quaker settlement near Winchester, Va. No complete list of their children found. Their ages may be guessed from date of marriage. Phebe Mills married Abraham Cook in 1756. John Mills III married Sarah Millikan in 1761. Ann married Edward Bond in 1764. Hannah married Elijah Stanley in 1768. With the exception of John III, all the others seem to have remained in N. C.

John Mills III (wife Sarah Millikan) had 7 children, all of whom married in Jefferson County, Tenn., and raised large families there. Many of their descendants still live in East Tenn. Will b. 1770 married Sarah Maulsby in 1799. 9 children. John Mills IV married Charity Mendenhall 1795. 10 children. Zacharias Mills m. Hannah Mendenhall in 1799. 3 children. Then he married Ann Woodward. 4 children. Alice Mills m. Nordecia Mendenhall, 1799. 11 children. Lydia Mills b. 1784 m. Wm. Morgan 1800. 7 children. Rachel Mills b. 1768 m. Richard Williams of Sevier Co. 1 child. In 1814 they moved to Wayne Co., Indiana.

JOHN III b. 1717, m. Margaret Hunt b. 1719, at Hopewell, Va. about 1735. (Records burned). They had 4 children, but their birth-dates are also lost. Names and approximate birth dates are: JOHN IV, 1738: Lydia, 1739: William, 1740: Rachel, 1745.

This is the ancestral line of three-fourths the Bales families of East Tenn, and will be fully treated as the 4th and 5th generations.

THOMAS b. 1719, married Sarah Antrim in 1741 at Hopewell, HM, Va. This is the famous Quaker Minister. They had 13 or 15 children, but it is not known who several of them married. Mary b. 1742 (unknown): Sarah b. 1743, m. Thomas Jessup: Thomas b. 1745 m. Non-Quaker: Patience b. 1747 m. Benjamin Carr: William b. 1750 m. Priscilla Horton (Children of William and Priscilla: Thomas, 1778: Abraham, 1779: John, 1781: Patience, 1783: William, Jr. 1784): Daniel b. 1753 m. Susanah Jackson: Elizabeth b. 1755 (Unknown): Margaret b. 1757 m. James Horton who was killed by Indians in Ohio: Hannah b. 1759 m. Isaac Williams: Rachel and John (Twins) b. 1763. John m. Mary Carter. Jacob b. 1768.

PRUDENCE b. 1723 m. Richard Williams, son of George, in 1745. 12 children. Silas b. 1747 m. Mary Hunt: Charity b. 1750 m. William Hiatt: Jesse b. 1753 m. Eleanor Johnson: Richard, b. 1755 m. Sarah Baldwin: Prudence b. 1758 m. Levi Coffin: Mathias b. 1760 (no marriage record): Sarah b. 1763 m. Sam Stanley: Dorcas b. 1765 m. David Hoggatt: Ruth b. 1768 m. Charles Gorden: Mary b. 1770 m. Jonathan Hoggatt: John b. 1773 m. Sarah Wheeler: Ann b. 1775 m. - Jessop. Most of these remained in N. C.

BOWATER b. 1725 m. Sarah Cook at Warrington, HM, Pa. in 1752. 9 children. Ann b. 1755 m. Jacob Jackson: Ruth b. 1757 (Unknown): Phoebe b. 1759 m. John Jackson: Nathan b. 1769 m. Esther Fisher: Jacob b. 1766 m. Mary - - - -: Thomas B. 1762 (Unknown): John Bowater b. 1764 m. Lois Branson: Mary b. 1771 (Unknown): Sarah b. 1776 m. Benj. Hoggatt.

John Bowater Beals (wife Lois) lived for a time in Greene County. About 1804 they together with the Jackson families moved to Miami HM Warren Co., Ohio. History of others unknown.

HANNAH, 1728 m. Azariah Pugh. They lived for a time in Newberry County, S.C. Only one child known - David b. 1758. Later he moved to Warren Co., Ohio. No further history.

RACHEL, 1730, m. Thomas Hunt. No complete list of their children or their birthdates known. They lived in Rowan County, some distance from any meeting. Ages can be guessed roughly at about 20 when married. Mary m. Wm. Robeson in 1765: Ruth m. Thomas Thornbrough in 1767: Sarah m. Thomas Unthank in 1767. Abner m. Mary Pope in 1771: Jemina m. Allen Unthank in 1774: Jacob m. Hannah Brittain in 1776.

From now on the family multiplies rapidly. To trace them all would consume years of time: to list them all would require a book instead of a few pages. So with each generation we drop all collaterals, and limit it to Bales whose descendants are in Tenn.

FOURTH GENERATION

(John III Line)

John Beals III, born 1717 married Margaret Hunt b. 1719, at Hopewell, Va. about 1735. Records were burned. Hopewell is near Winchester, in Shenandoah Valley. They had FOUR children:-

John IV	B. about 1736	M. 1-Sarah Dicks 1760
		2-Susannah Johnson 1778
Lydia	b. about 1738	m. Christopher Hiatt 1762
William	b. about 1743	m. Rachel Green 1769
Rachel	b. about 1745	m. James Dicks 1768

All these children were born in Va. The only known records were at Center and New Garden. Center records show that John III and Margaret died there in 1796: that John was in his 80th year: and that both are buried at New Garden. Center records contain partial lists of John IV and William's children. The birth records of the Hiatts are at New Garden and of the Dicks' children at Center.

John's first wife (Sara Dicks) was a sister to James Dicks who married Rachel Bales. No children by her. When John III moved to N.C. he settled in Rowan County some distance from any Meeting, which accounts for incomplete records there.

- I. John IV and Susannah Johnson. 9 children.
 John V b. 1780 m. Rachel Hunt 1804: Margaret b. 1781 m. Benj. Millikan 1806: William b. 1783 m. Sarah Dicks dau. Nathan-1803: Caleb b. 1786 m. In 1822 Eleazer and family went to Blue River MI in Indiana. All others remained in N.C.

- II. Lydia Bales and Christopher Hiatt had 11 children. Three died young. Nathan b. 1763 m. Mary Thornbrugh 1784: Asher b. 1765 m. Mary Johnson 1788: Jehu b. 1771 m. Quaker Church records at Center 121 contain a partial list of their children, with birthdates. In 1786 the family moved to New Garden, Guilford Co. About 1788 the family moved to Tenn. except the oldest daughter, Lydia, who had married Aaron Tyson. In 1789 William bought a 500 acre tract on Tuckahoe from Abraham Fulkerson. The deed describes it as "500 acres lying on North side of French Board River, on first creek below Dumplin creek (now Tuckahoe) in Green County, Territory South of the Ohio." Recorded Book E Vol I, p. 151. Formerly this territory had all been Washington Co., N.C. Later it was Jefferson County, and now Knox Co., Tenn.

Evidently this was William's home for 10 years. Rachel died there about 1799. In 1799 William sold 250 acres off the East end of this tract to Abraham McCleary, and deeded 157 acres to his son John, and then in 1800 deeded the remaining 90 acres to his son Jacob. In 1802 William and Ch. Asher, Dilwin, Aaron, Solomon and Jonathan and Mary moved back to N.C. This ended their stay in Tenn. Parnel went back in 1803. There in 1803 William married Rachel Johnson of Fairfax Co. and they had 4 children: Nathan b. 1806, Thomas b. 1808, Rachel B. 1809 and Ruth b. 1810.

In 1804 or 1805 Parnel and Asher married in N.C. and returned to Tenn. Their wives names, at present, unknown. William and his 2nd wife and their children, together with Dilwin, Aaron, Solomon, Jonathan and Mary (ch. of 1st wife) lived for a time at New Garden in Guilford Co. and then in 1806 all moved to Back Creek in Randolph Co., where William apparently died about 1814. His last deed made in 3rd month called March, 1812, conveys 100 acres of land on W. side of Deep River to Wm. Keezey. There Mary married a Mr. Temple. Solomon married a non-Quaker. This is last record of the family in N.C.

JACOB BALES LINE

Jacob Bales b. 1877 (son of William I and Rachel Greene) came to Tenn. with parents. He apparently married here, and lived on Tuckahoe - but nothing known of his wife, or children - if any.

William Bales, the father, in 1789 bought 500 acres on Tuckahoe from Abraham Fulkerson. In 1799 he sold 250 acres of the north half to Abraham McCleary whose widow in 1825 married Robert A. Bales. In 1800 William deeded
 90 acres to his son Jacob, and 157 acres to his son John. John, in 1811, sold 100 acres of this tract to his brother Parnell, which became home place of William Bales later. Parnel also in 1817 bought back from McCleary estate the 250 acres, which his father, William, had sold McCleary in 1779.

QUESTION: Did Jacob Bales have sons Jacob, Thomas, Parnel, Washington and Charlotte (m) Sherrod and Marry (m) Oconnell; or were they or some of them children of Parnel and brothers to William?

PARNEL BALES LINE

Before writing final history of the PARNEL Bales branch, I need some information which I hope you can supply. Parnel is the ancestor of most of you here today. He was 7th child of William and Rachel Greene Bales and only about 3 years old when family came to Tenn. B. 1782. William bought a 500 acre farm on Tuckahoe in 1789, and lived there for 12 years. Apparently Mary died there. In 1799 he sold 250 acres (the East end) to Abraham McCleary- whose widow Mary Cate McCleary afterward married Robert A. Bales.

William deeded 90 acres of the remainder to his son Jacob, and the remainder to his son John. William and his younger children, including Asher and Parnel, returned to N. Car. in 1803, where William married a 2nd time and had 4 children. Asher married in N. C. about 1804 and returned to Jefferson County. Whether Parnel married in N. C. or in Tenn. is unknown. His wife's name is unknown. Likewise the full list of his children (which I hope some of you can supply, as well as the correct birthdate of William. The census of 1850 gives William's age as 30 (born 1820) while in history given me, I find it 1808. Which is correct?

Another question to be cleared up is whether Parnel had sons Jacob, Thomas, Parnel and Washington, and daus. Charlotte who m. Sherrod and Mary who m. McConnell? Or were these, or some of these children of Jacob, brother of Parnel? Who did these marry and who are their descendants? I must ascertain this before I can write the history of Parnel's line. Send information you have to Clarence A. Bales, Jefferson City, Tenn., or 1311 East 62nd Street, Chicago.

YORK COUNTY (PA) BRANCH

In the preceding pages I traced the history of the NORTH CAROLINA branch of the Bales family - descendants of JOHN II, (oldest son of John I and Mary Clayton) who married Sarah Bowater in 1711, through its wanderings in Md., Va., N. Car., and into East Tennessee; and listed all older descendants named BALES I found there. The list is far from complete, but I hope it will enable any who are interested to trace their ancestry back to John I.

Now under the heading YORK COUNTY, Pa. branch, I trace a similar history of the descendants of Jacob I (3rd son of John I and Mary). Jacob was born in 1689 and married Mary Brooks in 1714. About 1748, Jacob I and Mary with their 6 children moved from Cecil County, Md. to York (now Adams) County, Penna., where all the children married, raised families and died: and where some of their descendants still live, at York Springs about 6 miles from Gettysburg.

The BALES family is today a large Clan, numbering probably 10,000 members - some of them in practically every state of the Union. With the exception of an apparently unrelated family in New England I think every BALES in the U. S. (and some who use the original spelling Beals) can be traced back to John I and Mary (Clayton). I have not had the time to trace out all the Bales families, nor attempted to trace out the collateral families - but rather to provide for all interested, the early history of the family: and to trace the various lines down to at least the grandparents of most of you. It is hoped that with this as a starter, some one sometime will be encouraged to compile and print a complete BALES history. Every reader is invited to send his own later family history to Clarence A. Bales, Jefferson City, Tenn., for inclusion in such a history, if one is attempted.

William, (second son of John I) had only one daughter. She apparently never married. So all the Bales families trace either through the family of John II (ancestor of the N. Car. branch) or through Jacob I (ancestor of the York Co. Branch). The York branch continued to use the spelling Beals even down to present time, and some of their descendants in East Tenn. continue to use that spelling. About 1800 the North Car. branch adopted generally the spelling Bales, as did most of the York Co. branch who settled in Tenn., Va., Ky., Ohio, and Ind., and elsewhere.

At the time John I settled in Penna. and married Mary Clayton, there were less than 800 white people in all of what is now Pennsylvania. About 1700 John I sold his two farms in Penna. and moved a few miles south to Md. where a considerable Quaker settlement grew up in Cecil County near what is now Elkton, Md. There John I and Mary died about 1734. Shortly before this John II with his family had moved to Frederick Co., Md., near the Va. line where John II died in 1746 and where his widow Sarah married Alex Underwood from York Co., Penna. About 1750 all of John and Sarah's children moved to the section around Greensboro, N. C.

By 1750 the two branches were some 300 miles apart - Jacob and his children in York (now Adams County, Pa.) and John II's children in the Piedmont section of N. Car. But there was constant communication and several intermarriages of the two branches. The same names appear again and again in different generations.

THIRD GENERATION

Jacob I (wife Mary Brooks) had 6 children, all born in Md.: Mary died-1763.

- | | | |
|--------------|---------|---------------------------------|
| 1. John, Sr. | b. 1715 | m. Elizabeth Thornbrough |
| 2. Jacob II | b. 1717 | m. Elizabeth (Nichols ?) |
| 3. Mary | b. 1719 | unknown |
| 4. William | b. 1721 | m. Mary Mullineaux (widow) 1748 |
| 5. Caleb I | b. 1723 | m. Mary Dill (widow) 1752 |
| 6. Rachel | b. 1727 | m. Joseph Smith 1752 |

John, Sr. married in Md. as probably did Jacob II - although this is not so clear. William's marriage in 1748 was the first Quaker marriage at the new church, Warrington. No record of Mary's marriage. Caleb I, and Rachel also married at Warrington. Apparently the maiden name of William's wife was Mary Carson. There is some evidence that Jacob II wife's maiden name was Nichols.

FOURTH GENERATION

With the fourth generation we have a rapid increase in numbers, fewer authentic records, and some uncertainty about the exact family to which certain of the group belonged. Huntington Tp. where the family settled was just being opened - still more Indians than white people there, no public record of births and deaths and very few church records preserved.

(Descendants of Jonathan Bales b. 1761 and Mary Mullineaux, listed here as son of Caleb I and Mary Dill: and of William b. 1768 listed here as son of William have never been able to clearly establish parents of either. Proof is scant, but I think sufficient to justify my listing).

ADAMS COUNTY FAMILIES

The only known descendants of Jacob Beals and Mary (Brooks) still living in Adams (originally western part of York County) are descendants of their son CALEB I, b. Cecil County Md. 1723, who married Mrs. Mary Dill (widow with 4 children) in 1852. They had a son Caleb II b. 1760 who married Lydia Walker of Chester Co. in 1783. It is the descendants of Caleb II and Lydia who live in Adams County now. This family has always used the original spelling BEALS. Quaker Meeting is still held once a year at the old Menallen Church there.

Adams County was cut off York in 1800. The 4 grandsons who left descendants in Tenn. were all born long before the division - hence the designation York County Branch. While the proof is not conclusive, I am satisfied that the Jonathan who married Elizabeth McGuire, and moved to Lee County, Va. (p.29) was a younger son of Caleb I and Mary (Dill).

Family of CALEB BEALS I

Caleb was one of the largest land owners and tax payers of his section, and a very devout Quaker. He was evidently a fine step-father to the 4 Dill children, as each of them later had a son named Caleb, in his memory. It is said that Caleb I, his son Caleb II, and a grandson Caleb III were all large men physically weighing more than 300 pounds, as did also Jonathan of Lee County, Va. Caleb died in 1805, his wife Mary some years before.

YORK COUNTY DESCENDANTS IN EAST TENN.

It is known that FOUR grandsons of Jacob I of York County lived for a time in Tennessee and have descendants there now- although the complete history is unknown. A fifth grandson, Jacob III, son of Jacob II who m. Elizabeth Blackburn at Menallen in 1783 with sons Jacob IV, Solomon, John, and Daniel and daughter Hannah joined the New Hope church in 1796 with letters from Menallen. But these did not remain. In 1810 they all moved to Highland County, Ohio: later history unknown.

A. Jonathan whose parents are not conclusively known, but whom I think evidence shows was a son of Caleb I of York County and Mary Dill, b. 1761 m. Elizabeth McGuire, and about 1785 moved to Lee County Va. (adjoining Hancock and Claiborne Counties, Tenn.), and raised a large family. Many of their descendants still live in and around Rose Hill, Lee County, Va. Some in Tennessee. A son Caleb b. 1791 m. Mary Bales dau. of William, first cousin of Jonathan. They lived in Claiborne County. Another son Vincent has many Tennessee descendants.

B. William, who, I believe, was a son of William, son of Jacob I, but which is not conclusively known b. 1768 m. Martha McGraw, and had several children, three of whom remained in Tennessee when the remainder of the family moved to Vermillion County, Ind. near Dana where several descendants now live.

The descendants of Jonathan and William have a very large history compiled over many years. I have included in this history, the records of those who remained in Tenn. I am also attaching to the copies of this history which I am filing in the Newberry Library at Chicago, the York Historical Society at York, Penna., the Lawson McGhee Library at Knoxville, Tenn. and the Tennessee Historical Society at Nashville, Tenn. the complete histories furnished me.

C. Solomon, son of Jacob II m. Rebecca Underwood in York County in 1776 and they had sons Daniel, Jacob and John. They moved to Washington or Greene County in 1802 with letters from Menallen. John died unmarried: Daniel's history is unknown. Jacob had a large family - history given later. A fourth son, Solomon, Jr. apparently by a previous marriage, married Katherin _____ in Penna. or Va. and moved to Greene or Washington County with dau. Charity and Hannah, and son Elihu in 1804. They had two other children, Rachel b. 1808 and Joseph b. 1810. History later.

D. Isaac, son of Jacob II m. Hannah Jones in York County in 1768. Both dismissed from Quaker church. It is not know where they moved to about 1800, or names of all their children. Two of these lived in Greene County - David b. 1771, and Joseph b. 1784. History later.

There may have been other descendants of the York County branch in East Tenn.: if so, their history is not known. The constant recurrence of the same given names in so many families, in different generations makes accurate tracing almost impossible. Unless otherwise stated proof is deemed sufficient.

From the records, all the children of Jacob I lived and died in York County - but, with the exception of the descendants of Caleb II, who remained in York County, all the others moved away to Tennessee or elsewhere around 1800, or died in Adams County leaving no present descendants.

C - DESCENDANTS of SOLOMON BEALS (Bales)

SOLOMON, Sr. - the 5th grandson of JACOB I of York County to come to East Tennessee, was a son of Jacob II. He married Rebecca Underwood in York County in 1776. In 1802 they (with sons Jacob, Samuel, and John) moved to Washington or Greene County and joined New Hope Church. In 1804, another son Solomon Jr. (evidently by a previous marriage b. 1772) came. Solomon, Jr. had married Katherine--probably in York County. John died in 1816, unmarried. Samuel married a non-Quaker and his descendants, if any, are unknown. The other two Solomon, Jr. and Jacob left numerous descendants, several of whom in Blount Co. still use the original spelling Beals, although most of the others now spell it BALES. Solomon, Jr. descendants comprise the largest group of the York County branch in East Tenn.

I have following information concerning descendants of Elihu Odle Bales:

- 1 - Geo. A. has or had a son Frank Bales living 1727 S. 5th St. Las Vegas, Nev. also other children names unknown.
- 2 - J. William has sons Luke and William living Greenville, Tenn.

NOTE. In Biography of this family in Encyc. American Biography (New Series) appears statement that Beals family came from Wales early in 17th century. I am convinced this is error. John T (head of both York and W. Car. branches) was most certainly English and came to U. S. in 1675.

This supplemental history of the William Bales family was compiled by his descendants. The tie-in appears in the main history.
Some of his descendants remained in Tennessee; others went to and still live in Indianna and Illinois.
